

To apply for the DHA exam for nurses, you need to first create a Sheryan account on the DHA's online platform, submit required documents, and undergo Primary Source Verification (PSV) through DataFlow. After successfully completing these steps, you can schedule and take the DHA exam.

Detailed Steps:

1. Create a Sheryan Account: Visit the DHA's Sheryan portal and register a new account.
2. Self-Assessment and Document Submission: Complete the self-assessment tool on the Sheryan portal and submit the required documents.
3. Primary Source Verification (PSV): Utilize DataFlow for PSV, which verifies your qualifications and work experience.
4. Application Review and Scheduling: Once your application is reviewed, you can schedule the DHA exam.
5. Take the DHA Exam: Attend the exam at the designated location and time.
6. License Activation: After successfully passing the exam, you can activate your professional license.

Required Documents:

- Copy of passport or National ID
- Educational certificates (Degree and Diploma)
- Letter of experience from your last employer
- Current license of practice
- Physical fitness and vaccination details
- Proof of Continued Professional Development (if any)
- Good Standing Certificate (GSC) from the country of last employment
- Valid passport, not expiring within at least eight months from the time of starting the application process

Additional Information:

- The PSV process with DataFlow is essential to ensure the authenticity of your qualifications.
- Ensure all documents are scanned clearly and accurately.
- You can find more details and guidance on the DHA website and Sheryan portal.
